

The professionalisation of head teachers as a means of improving school careers guidance

Jean-Frédéric VEFOUR

UFTS

Université Toulouse – Jean Jaurès

Presentation of thesis project, 22 May 2024 at the Wroclaw
Pedagogical Institute

Outline

- 1 Introduction
- 2 Educational and vocational guidance
- 3 The difficulties of the guidance service
- 4 The professionalisation of head teachers
- 5 The benefits of professionalising head teachers
- 6 Conclusion

- School and career guidance is a crucial area of intervention for individuals and society.
- Despite its importance, the guidance service does not always succeed in achieving its objectives.
- The professionalisation of head teachers is a promising way of improving the effectiveness of school guidance.

- School and career guidance is a crucial area of intervention for individuals and society.
- Despite its importance, the guidance service does not always succeed in achieving its objectives.
- The professionalisation of head teachers is a promising way of improving the effectiveness of school guidance.

- School and career guidance is a crucial area of intervention for individuals and society.
- Despite its importance, the guidance service does not always succeed in achieving its objectives.
- The professionalisation of head teachers is a promising way of improving the effectiveness of school guidance.

- Definition: Educational and vocational guidance is a set of activities designed to help individuals make educational, training and occupational choices.
- Objectives : Educational and vocational guidance aims to help individuals to :
  - Make informed choices consistent with their aspirations and abilities.
  - Fulfil their personal and professional potential.
  - Contribute to the development of society.

- Definition: Educational and vocational guidance is a set of activities designed to help individuals make educational, training and occupational choices.
- Objectives : Educational and vocational guidance aims to help individuals to :
  - Make informed choices consistent with their aspirations and abilities.
  - Fulfil their personal and professional potential.
  - Contribute to the development of society.

- Definition: Educational and vocational guidance is a set of activities designed to help individuals make educational, training and occupational choices.
- Objectives : Educational and vocational guidance aims to help individuals to :
  - Make informed choices consistent with their aspirations and abilities.
  - Fulfil their personal and professional potential.
  - Contribute to the development of society.

- Definition: Educational and vocational guidance is a set of activities designed to help individuals make educational, training and occupational choices.
- Objectives : Educational and vocational guidance aims to help individuals to :
  - Make informed choices consistent with their aspirations and abilities.
  - Fulfil their personal and professional potential.
  - Contribute to the development of society.

- Definition: Educational and vocational guidance is a set of activities designed to help individuals make educational, training and occupational choices.
- Objectives : Educational and vocational guidance aims to help individuals to :
  - Make informed choices consistent with their aspirations and abilities.
  - Fulfil their personal and professional potential.
  - Contribute to the development of society.

- Lack of resources: School and career guidance services often lack human and material resources.
- Insufficient training of professionals : Guidance professionals are not always sufficiently trained to provide effective support for students.
- Disparate practices: Guidance practices vary from one school to another, which can create inequalities in access to a quality service.

- Lack of resources: School and career guidance services often lack human and material resources.
- Insufficient training of professionals : Guidance professionals are not always sufficiently trained to provide effective support for students.
- Disparate practices: Guidance practices vary from one school to another, which can create inequalities in access to a quality service.

- Lack of resources: School and career guidance services often lack human and material resources.
- Insufficient training of professionals : Guidance professionals are not always sufficiently trained to provide effective support for students.
- Disparate practices: Guidance practices vary from one school to another, which can create inequalities in access to a quality service.

- Definition : The professionalisation of primary teachers is a process aimed at developing the skills and knowledge of primary teachers in the field of educational and vocational guidance.
- Objectives : The professionalisation of principal teachers aims to :
  - Improve the quality of student support.
  - Strengthen the link between school and the world of work.Contribute to student success.

- Definition : The professionalisation of primary teachers is a process aimed at developing the skills and knowledge of primary teachers in the field of educational and vocational guidance.
- Objectives : The professionalisation of principal teachers aims to :
  - Improve the quality of student support.
  - Strengthen the link between school and the world of work.
  - Contribute to student success.

- Definition : The professionalisation of primary teachers is a process aimed at developing the skills and knowledge of primary teachers in the field of educational and vocational guidance.
- Objectives : The professionalisation of principal teachers aims to :
  - Improve the quality of student support.
  - Strengthen the link between school and the world of work.
  - Contribute to student success.

- Definition : The professionalisation of primary teachers is a process aimed at developing the skills and knowledge of primary teachers in the field of educational and vocational guidance.
- Objectives : The professionalisation of principal teachers aims to :
  - Improve the quality of student support.
  - Strengthen the link between school and the world of work.Contribute to student success.

- Better knowledge of pupils : Senior teachers are better trained to identify pupils' needs and aspirations.
- More personalised support : head teachers can offer more individualised support to pupils.
- Better collaboration with parents : Head teachers can work more closely with parents to help students choose the right career path.
- Stronger links with the world of work : Senior teachers can better guide pupils towards training and careers that meet the needs of the labour market.

- Better knowledge of pupils : Senior teachers are better trained to identify pupils' needs and aspirations.
- More personalised support : head teachers can offer more individualised support to pupils.
- Better collaboration with parents : Head teachers can work more closely with parents to help students choose the right career path.
- Stronger links with the world of work : Senior teachers can better guide pupils towards training and careers that meet the needs of the labour market.

- Better knowledge of pupils : Senior teachers are better trained to identify pupils' needs and aspirations.
- More personalised support : head teachers can offer more individualised support to pupils.
- Better collaboration with parents : Head teachers can work more closely with parents to help students choose the right career path.
- Stronger links with the world of work : Senior teachers can better guide pupils towards training and careers that meet the needs of the labour market.

- Better knowledge of pupils : Senior teachers are better trained to identify pupils' needs and aspirations.
- More personalised support : head teachers can offer more individualised support to pupils.
- Better collaboration with parents : Head teachers can work more closely with parents to help students choose the right career path.
- Stronger links with the world of work : Senior teachers can better guide pupils towards training and careers that meet the needs of the labour market.

- The professionalisation of primary teachers is an important lever for improving the effectiveness of school and career guidance.
- It enables them to better support pupils in their career choices and contribute to their success.
- It is important to implement public policies to support the professionalisation of head teachers.

- The professionalisation of primary teachers is an important lever for improving the effectiveness of school and career guidance.
- It enables them to better support pupils in their career choices and contribute to their success.
- It is important to implement public policies to support the professionalisation of head teachers.

- The professionalisation of primary teachers is an important lever for improving the effectiveness of school and career guidance.
- It enables them to better support pupils in their career choices and contribute to their success.
- It is important to implement public policies to support the professionalisation of head teachers.

-

Abric, J.-C. (2005).
Méthodes d'étude des représentations sociales.
 Hors collection. Toulouse : Érès.
-

Durkheim, É. (2013).
De la division du travail social.
 Quadrige. Paris cedex 14 : Presses Universitaires de France.
-

Durkheim, É. (2014).
Sociologie et philosophie.
 Quadrige. Paris cedex 14 : Presses Universitaires de France.
-

Guimelli, C. (1999).
La pensée sociale.
 Number 3453 in Que sais-je ? Paris cedex 14 : Presses
 Universitaires de France.

Rouquette, M.-L. (2013).

Sur la connaissance des masses. Essai de psychologie politique.

Vies sociales. FONTAINE : Presses universitaires de Grenoble.